Subject: Elementary Social Studies Test Sampler Draft

Enclosed you will find an elementary social studies test sampler designed to assist K-5 teachers in preparing their students for the November 2001 State assessment in social studies. The first administration of the elementary social studies test will be on November 14 and 15, 2001 with makeup days on November 16 and 19, 2001. In March 2000, we distributed the Grade 5 Elementary Social Studies Test Draft, and in February 2001 the Elementary Social Studies Document Based Question was distributed.

This packet includes a complete practice test, including the scoring guide and rubric for the document-based question (DBQ). This DBQ uses the "scaffold question format" which will be used on the November 2001 test. Teachers can use this entire practice test or any part of it to familiarize their students with the types of questions, the format, the general directions, and the generic DBQ scoring rubric for this test. This publication does not contain sample student papers or scoring commentaries. The Elementary Social Studies Document Based Question (Revolutionary War) mailed in February 2001 should be used to train teachers to score this type of examination question. Please share this document with teachers in your building. You can find this document and others on our website at <http://www.emsc.nysed.gov/ciai/social.html>

We hope that this sample test, along with the other elementary social studies materials, assists you in preparing students for the upcoming social studies examination. If you have any questions or need additional information, please feel free to contact Gary Warren (518) 474-3860. Also, please feel free to complete and return the enclosed comment sheet at the back of this publication. Thank you for your continued help in improving social studies curriculum, instruction, and assessment.

Introduction

The new Grade 5 Elementary Social Studies Test has been developed to reflect the social studies content and intellectual skills described in the five social studies standards. This new assessment will provide students with varied opportunities to demonstrate what they know and are able to do. Questions on this examination will focus on the student's knowledge of elementary social studies skills and content emphasized in the Social Studies Resource Guide with Core Curriculum for grades K-4. Items for this sample assessment resulted from the collaborative efforts of New York State teachers, school districts, State Education Department staff, and the Washington-Saratoga-Warren-Hamilton-Essex BOCES.

Components and Weighting of the Grade 5 Elementary Social Studies Test

ITEM TYPE	NUMBER OF ITEMS	APPROXIMATE PERCENTAGE OF THE TEST
Multiple-choice	35	50%
Constructed response	3-4	20%
Document-based question (DBQ)	1	10% - scaffolded questions/notes 20% - essay TOTAL = 30%

The revised Grade 5 Elementary Social Studies Test Specifications Grid (see Appendix A) indicates a range of multiple-choice items from each social studies unit and social studies standard that can be included in Part I of this examination. Teachers should review the social studies skills section and the K-4 content understandings of the Social Studies Resource Guide with Core Curriculum for additional information about what might be asked on future elementary examinations. The multiple-choice items and constructed response items are designed to assess both the students' understanding of K-4 social studies content and their ability to apply that content to the interpretation and analysis of reading passages, graphs, political cartoons, maps, charts, and diagrams.

Students will be expected to apply the intellectual skills (taken from the elementary-level performance indicators) in completing the document-based question included on the elementary social studies test. Document-based questions require students to identify and explore events or issues by examining, analyzing, and evaluating textual and visual primary and secondary source documents. The format of an elementary-level, document-based question has been finalized. The scaffold model (similar to the format used for the grade 8 and commencement-level social studies tests) will be the format used for the elementary DBQs. In October 2001, the Department will again administer several grade 5 elementary social studies field tests and pretests to a scientifically selected sample of elementary schools for the purpose of further refining question formats, scoring materials, and actual test items for use on future grade 5 social studies tests.

The elementary social studies test will be administered to grade 5 students in November of each year. This test will be given in two sessions of 1 1/2 hour each on two consecutive days as determined by the New York State Education Department. Day one will include the multiple-choice and constructed response portions of the test (Parts I and II), and day two will include the DBQ portion (Part III). Students must take all three sections of the test. Students will be required to answer all of the questions on the test. The first administration of this test is scheduled for November 14 and 15, 2001. Days to make up the test administration have been scheduled for November 16 and 19, 2001.

In accordance with Commissioner's Regulation 100.2, students who score below the State-designated performance level on the Grade 5 Elementary Social Studies Test must be provided academic intervention services (AIS) by their school by the start of the second semester of the 2001-2002 school year. The State-designated performance level will be established by a standard-setting process using student responses from grade 5 social studies field tests.

Test modifications must be consistently provided to students with disabilities when it is determined that such accommodations are necessary. These modifications must be documented in either an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) or in a Section 504 Accommodation Plan. The various State assessments are being developed by both special and general educators to ensure that they are appropriate for students with disabilities.

The tasks in this sampler may be administered in the classroom to help teachers plan for instruction. Sometime before taking the sample test, students should be introduced to the test format and general scoring guidelines. Teachers are encouraged to use the scoring guides and sample papers in the Sample of a Grade 5 DBQ With Scaffolding (Revolutionary War DBQ), released in February 2001, for practice in scoring the essay portion of the DBQ.

In considering implications of student results on the elementary social studies test for curricular planning, teachers may want to answer the following questions:

- Is your local elementary social studies curriculum aligned with the State learning standards for social studies as detailed in the K-4 core curriculum?
- On which components did students seem to be most successful? least successful?
- To what extent did students follow the guidelines included with each question type?
- To what extent did students use the scaffolding portion of the document-based question to respond properly to the larger question presented in the document-based essay?
- What learning experiences will students need to perform well on each question?
- What opportunities do K-4 students have to engage in a social studies instructional program that includes writing in the content area, using documents of all kinds, and engaging in activities requiring higher-order thinking skills?

PART I: MULTIPLE-CHOICE

Directions (Questions 1-35): Each question is followed by four choices. Read each question carefully. Decide which choice is the correct answer. Mark your answer on the separate answer sheet by filling in the circle that has the same letter as the answer you have chosen. Use pencil to mark your answer sheet.

They are friendly ... people who [carry no weapons] except for small spears, and they have no iron... I showed one my sword, and through ignorance [not knowing] he grabbed it by the blade and cut himself. Their spears are made of wood, to which they attach a fish tooth at one end, or some other sharp thing.
...They traded and gave everything they had with good will, but it seems to me that they have very little and are poor in everything....
They brought us parrots, balls of cotton thread, spears, and many other things,.... For these items we traded them little glass beads and hawks' bells [small bells that are attached to the legs of a captive hawk].

The Iroquois Great Peace

During the late 1500's, five related Iroquois Nations came together to form what is known as "The Iroquois League." The Five Nations were the Cayuga, Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, and Seneca. They lived in the woods and hills of New York State. The Iroquois called this union "The Great Peace." They did not want any more wars among themselves. They wanted to keep peace.

The Iroquois joined together for their common good. They created a council made up of leaders from each of the Five Nations. Iroquois women picked the leaders. Leaders were picked for life. The women chose leaders for their patience, good will, generosity, and ability to act in the best interests of all.

The Iroquois prospered for a long time, because of their unity and peace-seeking.

PART III: DOCUMENT-BASED QUESTION

Directions: The task below is based on documents 1 through 6. This task is designed to test your ability to work with historical documents. Look at each document and answer the question or questions after each document. Use your answers to the questions to help you write your essay.

Historical Background:

The building of the Erie Canal brought many changes for people in New York State. Once completed in 1825, the canal helped New York become the Empire State.

Task: For Part A, read each document carefully and answer the question or questions after each document. Then read the directions for Part B and write your essay.

For Part B, use your answers from Part A, information from the documents, and your knowledge of social studies to write a well-organized essay. In the essay you should:

Explain three ways communities in New York State benefited from the building of the Erie Canal.

Document 1

Folk songs are stories set to music. The most famous Erie Canal song is “Low Bridge, Everybody Down,” or “Fifteen Miles on the Erie Canal” By Thomas S. Allen.

Low Bridge, Everybody Down

I got a mule, her name is Sal,
Fifteen miles on the Erie Canal!
She's a good old worker and a good old pal,
Fifteen miles on the Erie Canal!
We've hauled some barges in our day,
Filled with lumber, coal and hay,
And we know ev'ry inch of the way
From Albany to Buffalo
(chorus)
Low bridge, ev'rybody down,
Low bridge, 'cause we're coming to town,
And you'll always know your neighbor,
You'll always know your pal,
If you ever navigated on the Erie Canal. . . .

1 According to this song, name two products that were shipped on the Erie Canal.

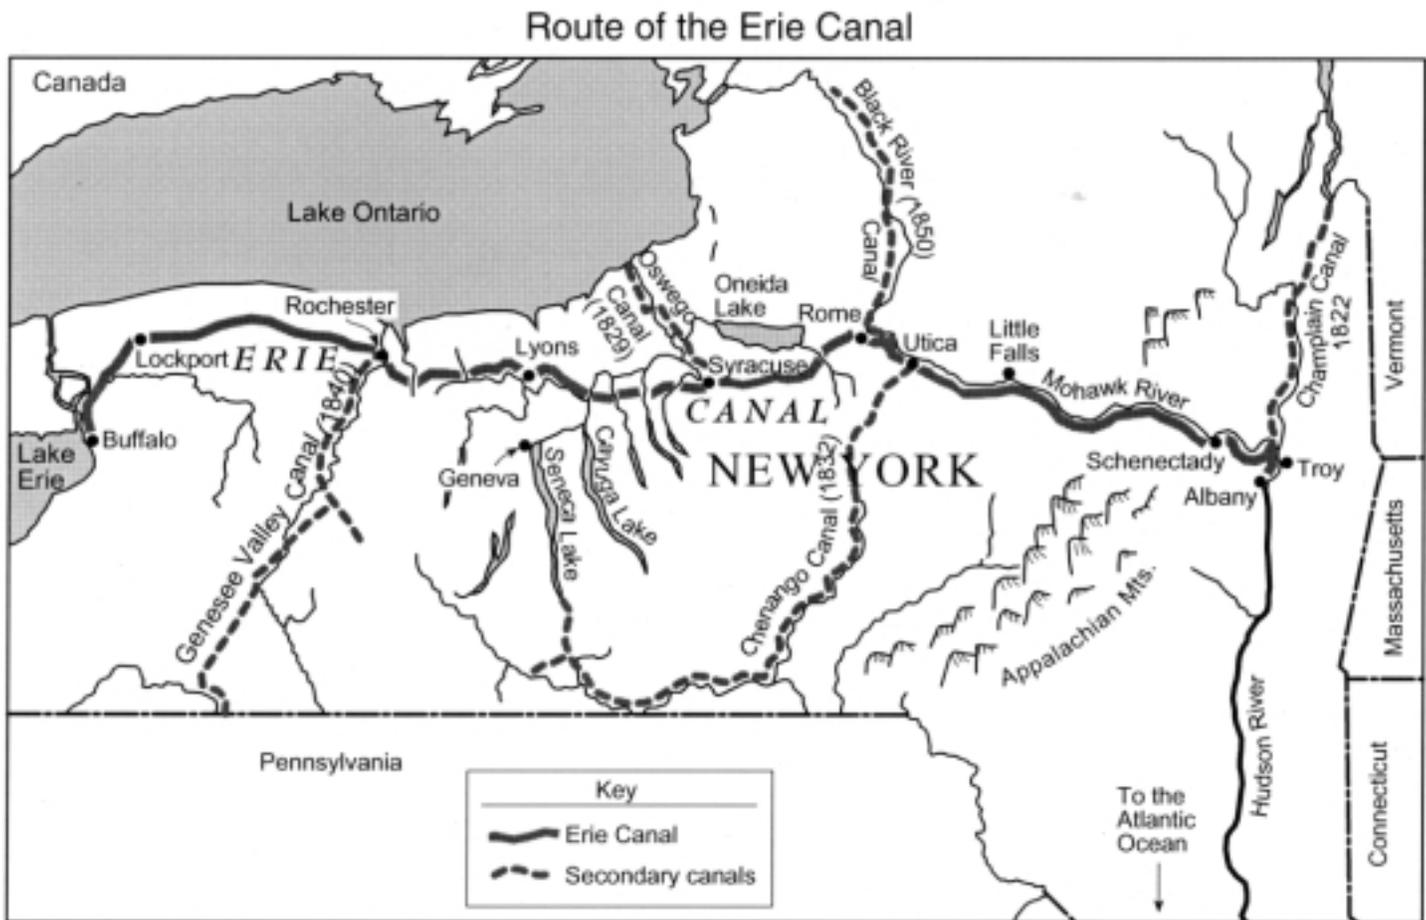

(a) _____ [1]

Before the building of the Erie Canal, most people in New York State had settled in New York City and along the Hudson River. However, west of that area was mostly wilderness. This changed when the canal opened.

[Today] with the exception of Binghamton and Elmira, every major city in New York falls along the trade route established by the Erie Canal, from New York City to Albany, through Schenectady, Utica, and Syracuse, to Rochester and Buffalo. Approximately 75% of the State's population still lives within the corridors created by the waterways of the New York State canal system and the Hudson River Valley.

- 1 According to the reading passage and the map, how did the Erie Canal help the growth of New York State west of the Hudson River?

Document 3

The Erie Canal affected the population of New York State. Look at the census (population) data for Albany, New York City, and Buffalo between 1820 and 1880.

Populations of Three Cities in New York State, 1820–1880

Years	Population of Albany	Population of New York City	Population of Buffalo
1820	12,630	123,706	2,095
1830	24,209	202,589	8,668
1840	33,721	312,710	18,213
1850	50,763	515,547	42,261
1860	62,367	813,669	81,129
1870	76,216	942,292	111,714
1880	90,758	1,206,299	115,134

- 1 Complete the chart with the population numbers of these three cities in 1820, 1840, and 1870.

	1820	1840	1870
a Albany	12,630
b New York City			942,292
c Buffalo		18,213

[2]

- 2 How did the population change in these three cities during the period from 1820 to 1870?

Document 4

- 1 According to this line graph, how did the amount of goods shipped on the Erie Canal change between 1835 and 1885?

[1]

Document 5

The following description written in 1832, describes Buffalo, New York in spring once the ice was gone and the Erie Canal was reopened.

Canal boats filled with emigrants, and covered with goods and furniture, are almost hourly arriving. The boats are discharged of their [human] freight [passengers], and for the time being, natives of all climates and countries [walk] our streets, either to satisfy their curiosity, purchase necessaries [goods], or to inquire [ask about] the most favorable points for their future location.

- 1 Based on this document, what did the canal boats often carry?

[1]

- 2 List one way communities, like Buffalo, benefited from people traveling along the Erie Canal.

Document 6

By 1825, the Erie Canal gave another boost to New York's already busy seaports. Commercial vessels could now travel north up the Hudson River all the way to Lake Erie. This new waterway connected the Atlantic Ocean to the Great Lakes, and it caused a terrific boom [increase] in industry all along the Hudson River and made New York's ports and harbor more valuable than ever.

Between 1830 and 1860, New York City and its seaport grew at an astounding rate.
